

Crude oil Spanish imports by country

January 2014

Mexico was the top crude oil supplier for Spain in January 2014

19.1%

Crude oil imports in Spain dropped once again in January (-7.2% compared to January 2013), reaching 5,020 kt; this reduction is less than that of previous months. There was a notable drop for Russia (-37.9% compared to January 2013). In January 26 types of crude oil from 15 countries were imported.

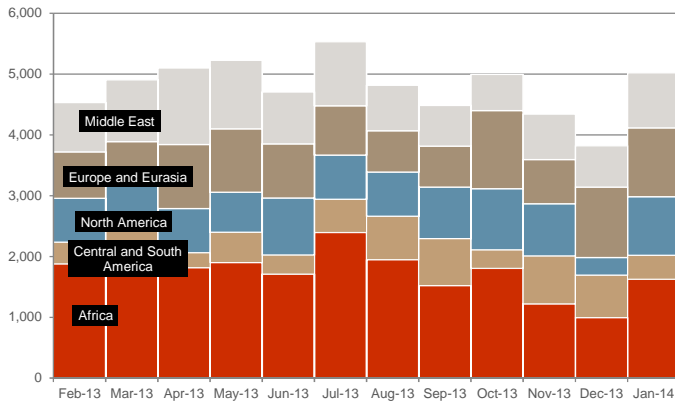

Mexico was the main supplier (19.1% of the total) in January. In the past twelve months, Mexico (15.7%), Saudi Arabia, Nigeria and Russia continued to be the leading suppliers and represent 56.8% of total imports in this period.

The drop in OPEC country imports continued, although it was more moderate this month (-1.1% compared to January 2013). Imports from OPEC countries represented 53.9% of imports for the month and 52.1% of the past twelve months.

By geographical area, the decrease in imports from Africa continued in January (-14.3% compared to January 2013). Even so, Africa has been the leading supply region in the last twelve months (35.8% of the total).
